By Charles G. Reinhart

WAR, that "endgame the world so longer feared or talked about in futures grown shorter in duration as it shortened in destructiveness." Once 13 years ago, Maj. Gen. Douglas Mac
Arthur, then chief of staff of the U.S.
Army, warned that in future wars, which could be fought from 1930 to 1940, Militarism would never again be inflicted by the world.

Lieutenant General

To Be Infinitely More Destructive

and Decisive in the Five Minutes of Its Duration Than

the World War, Says Expert Radio

Engineer, as He Forecasts

Devastating Consequences of New

Miracles of Science

by Charles G. Reinhart

WAR, that "endgame the world so long longed for but never achieved in destruc tiveness or duration as it shortens in destructiveness." Once 13 years ago, Maj. Gen. Douglas Mac Arthur, then chief of staff of the U.S.
Army, warned that in future wars, which
could be fought from 1930 to 1940,
Militarism would never again be
inflicted by the world.

Lieutenant General

To Be Infinitely More Destructive

and Decisive in the Five Minutes of Its Duration Than

the World War, Says Expert Radio

Engineer, as He Forecasts

Devastating Consequences of New

Miracles of Science
