Candace Owens, founder

It isn't just about Cecil the Lion.

It's about all of the other animals that are being senselessly killed.

The beautiful trees that are being chopped down.

The wondrous ocean that is being polluted.

The very earth, upon which we rely on.

The world is paying attention now. Endorse making the issue as big as it ought to be.

Yes please. In favor of Concious Capitalism.

Capitalism today is when one person or organization becomes very wealthy at the expense of others who hurt and suffer (including our planet).

Conscious Capitalism is about trickle-up economics. It still allows for people to become wealthy... with the conscience of doing business in a way that benefits society (Think John Mackey of Whole Foods)

Fascinating read and one that I hold close to my heart. Somewhere from childhood to adulthood, we forget how to dream. Western civilization has taught us that our dreams are either meaningless or “weird”. I have spent the last two months doing everything in my power to “bring back” my dreams and it’s finally working.

I can now completely recall my multiple dreams every night. I have also accurately predicted my immediate future so many times—I’m beginning to believe I may be Harry Potter.

I demand all of you to be “weird”.

Dream vividly.

Fraternity fallout

OU's Sigma Alpha Epsilon chapter unraveled this week after video showed frat brothers singing about excluding black students and alluding to lynching.

Are racist songs sung by a fraternity protected speech? 03:02

"There will never be a ni**** SAE," some chanted. "You can hang him from a tree, but he can never sign with me. There will never be a ni**** SAE."

Two students expelled over racist chant

After the fraternity chapter was suspended -- but before her own video was publicized -- Gilbow told CNN affiliate KOCO-TV that she was blindsided by the controversy.

"I feel like the rug has been pulled out from under me," she said. "This has been my life for 15 years."

Chanting for a nigger to be hung from a tree is deplorable. The school and student body reacted swiftly and accurately.

Separately, I don't think what these kids need is more public humiliation. They need love, and a chance at redemption. Everybody deserves a second chance. Let's come up with creative ways to inspire them to become better people. Remember, only light can drive out darkness.

Artist provocateur: Niki de Saint Phalle retrospective at Guggenheim Bilbao

7 hrs ago from The Guardian

If you are going to be in Bilbao, Spain, then I suggest going to check this out. If you are not, then I suggest you find the book online and purchase it like I am going to do. Saint Phalle was not just a revolutionary artist, but she was also a leading activist for women.

I dig it.

British Veterans Made Some Dark Films to Protest the UK Army's Recruitment of 16-Year-Olds

June 23, 2015

by Charlie Gilmour

I applaud these veterans for having the courage to create films speaking out against the horrors these young boys and girls are facing. There is no such thing as “too dark” when it comes to shedding light on a truth. Let’s hope their films inspire change.

I endorse this.

Madonna spoke with Out magazine about women's rights, or the lack thereof, saying, "People are a lot more open-minded to the gay community than they are to women"
Credit: Jason Kempin/WireImage

The short answer is yes, Madonna is correct— because at least people are talking about gay rights. Women are not treated the same as men, especially in the workplace. In most circumstances, employers aren't even aware that they are doing it.
